CLASS ODE.

BY WILLIAM P. HANNUM.

Let each classmate raise his voice
In a song of love and praise.
Let us each and all rejoice,
At the end of High School days.

Press on, press on, nor leave unfinished
The message you have to send.
Resolve you'll never be defeated,
'Tis the beginning, not the end.

Although our High School days are ended,
We have other work to do.
Let us hope to be commended
When we know our life work's through.

When we meet in days far distant
In that glorious land above,
May we feel that we have conquered
And won our fellow being's love.
