PROVINCETOWN ART ASSOCIATION

1937 EXHIBITION

TWENTY-THIRD SEASON

JULY 4th --- SEPTEMBER 6th

The Art Association announces its seventh annual series of free concerts to be given every Sunday evening during the exhibition. Solo recitals or evenings of chamber music will make up the program.

No admission is charged, and since there is only a small fund set aside for these concerts, the committee asks for contributions to continue them and to widen their scope.

Foreword

For some years heretofore the Provincetown Art Association has held two exhibitions each summer, one of modern work in July and one of more conservative work, commonly called the Regular exhibition, in August. This arrangement had a disadvantage in the fact that at no time could an exhibition visitor see a cross section of Provincetown art. The present exhibition is an experimental attempt to present such a cross section.

In organizing the exhibition those in charge have followed the instructions voted by Association members in the last annual meeting and later approved by the board of trustees. Artists were allowed to submit their work either to a Modern jury, elected by exhibitors in previous Modern exhibitions, or to a Regular jury appointed by the Board of Vice-Presidents. The galleries have been divided in halves, and the choice of sides determined by the flip of a coin.

With the apparent arbitrary division in the exhibition it would be well to keep in mind that the innate sensitiveness of the artist, that is, the quality of his mind, is a thing that eludes all categories and it is this after all for which one should search.

PROVINCETOWN

In 1004, Norsemen landed here, and later, Captain John Smith, Bartholomew Gosnold, and certain explorers from France. In November, 1620, the Mayflower anchored well up the harbor, and here, in this haven, was drawn up and signed the "Compast", a document which had, and still has, a great and significant influence on the people and polity of this now great nation.

Rich in historical interest; marked by many memorials of events of great importance in our history; beautiful in its land and in its sea views; blessed with the purest of sea breezes; with lovely winding roads; with many little jewels of glacially-formed lakes, Provincetown and vicinity are well worth the time and effort of a visit.

The Town is not large, is surrounded by "Province" or State land on three sides, overlooks a harbor second to none in the matters of beauty and safety, dominated by the Pilgrim monument, rising 390 feet above the sea, a landmark for all vessels passing up and down our coast.

Its dunes, its plains of glittering sand, its gleaming beacons of the night, its quaint and "Cape Coddy" dwellings, its narrow and oft-times crooked streets, its light and sunshine, combine to make it a Paradise for painters and etchers. Provincetown is easy of access. By train one can come any day in the year, and in the summer, a most beautiful sail across the bay from Boston, invites the city dweller to sights and experiences previously unknown.

The Town has an adequate supply of good water, electricity, plenty of Churches, and many educational facilities. Provincetown has many and useful Clubs, a Historical Society with a Museum full of objects of great interest to those who care for the relation of the present to the past. Among the collections, is one of great interest, presented by Commander Donald B. MacMillan, of Arctic exploration fame, a collection to which he will add as occasion permits Provincetown has an Art Association, sponsoring each year one or more exhibitions of paintings, etchings, drawings, and other works of Art. The people of the Town are hospitable, its hotels good, its public servants courteous, and everyone is ready to helpfully welcome all who come in the spirit of good-fellowship.

Come to Provincetown, and come again.
