sexually oriented at all, and the Volunteer Fireman's Muster is really just about firemen, not being straight. Well, the town government doesn't have anything to do with that event anyway.

Wait a minute, isn't there a religious ceremony in the Portuguese Festival, and don't they use town streets and the town pier? I think we may have a PC church-and-state conflict there.

If only they would come up with a PC pill for post-menopausal political correctness. Something that Howard and I could take so we wouldn't feel so left out.

Of course in this town they should probably just put it in the drinking water, then everybody won't feel left out.

Questions Packard's reaction

To the editor:

Why does Anne Packard feel, that Sarah Peake's comments about the Bohm painting create an "embarrassment" for the gay community in Provincetown? Do Anne Packard's personal opinions reflect poorly on the "straight" community? Who in this day and age would make such an absurd connection? I would also like to know who "they" are in Anne's quote. Does she mean the Board of Selectmen or in the context on her quote does she mean the gay community? It is this type of prejudice that is the true embarrassment.

Declaration of Independence, too

To the editor:

Did I hear right? I heard they took down the Mayflower Compact because none of the women signed it. Wow. Someone call the folks in Philly and let them take down the Declaration of Independence. Or someone get on the phone to Washington and tell them to take one long last look at the Constitution because it's just a matter of time.

Questions bank's commitment

To the editor:

Thinking about Wellfleet's just held Town Meeting and the narrow rejection of the easement plan for the Cape Cod Five Bank, I've come to the conclusion that for a young man I'm an old fashioned sort of guy. Like just enough other Wellfleet citizens, I voted against the proposed article to grant the Cape Cod Five an easement for a drive-through teller. Mind you, I've nothing against them per se. In fact, I've had an account there for 23 years and I wish to continue banking with them in downtown Wellfleet, with or without a drive-
