Provincetown

Provincetown is an interesting and comfortable place where it is easy to relax.

Here the Pilgrims first landed. The fact is commemorated by an impressive landmark, the Pilgrim Monument, 250 feet high, atop the highest hill. Its observation tower commands a magnificent view of Cape Cod Bay and the sweep of the Atlantic. One looks directly down on the harbor — the harbor where the Mayflower dropped anchor, the harbor whence Cape Cod skippers and Yankee whalers sailed the seven seas.

Situated at the very tip end of Cape Cod, the quaint, breeze-swept village is virtually surrounded by the sea. There are no warm, sultry nights.

Through three centuries, Provincetown has been accumulating the native charm and picturesque atmosphere which fascinate visitors. It is a village of narrow streets, old wharves, Colonial houses, antique shops.

Here is a summer art center of nation wide fame. The art schools and art colony attract visitors from all sections of the country. Several interesting exhibitions are held throughout the summer.

The State highway, which runs for a mile along the bathing beach, winds through the sand dunes out behind the town to the airport and Race Point Coast Guard Station. This is the best beach and is a mile from the town, with ample parking facilities for automobiles. It is a ten minute ride by the beach bus, which passes the hotel at frequent intervals.

Provincetown offers all kinds of amusements, — sailing, fishing, swimming, tennis, bicycling, as well as the usual forms of evening entertainment, including a summer theater.

A Sketching Class on the Beach

Miles of Safe Bathing Beaches

Sand Dunes along Ocean Highway

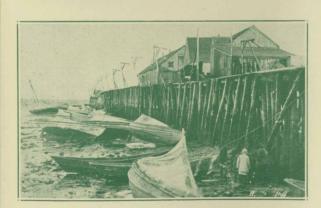

Town Wharf at Provincetown

View of Provincetown

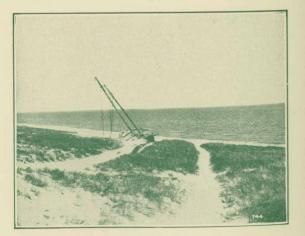

Park in front of Provincetown Town Hall

When the Tide Goes out at Provincetown

Studios on the Wharf

Wreck on the Outer Beach

Typical Street in Provincetown

Gulls in Provincetown Harbor

Artists at Work on the Wharves