The Town Crier
(On Road to The Monument),
Provincetown,
Mass.

From: "Cape Cod & All The Pilgrim
Land" Magazine - July 1920

"Walter Smith, aged 71 years, who has been "Town Crier" at Provincetown for 22 years, recently announced that he had "cried" his last message. As he laid aside his bell, he laid "I am through, I want to sell my Bell which is over 100 years old". Mr. Smith is possibly and probably the last town crier in the country, and with his retirement the office seems likely to become extinct."
