

1675 006-113

- September 1940 -

After reading the sign, Mopsy and Althea lead the way onward.

1802 . . . Taken up on the Back of Cape Cod by Elkanah Paine and Joshua Atkins Mayo on May 22, one anker of about five hundred weight, and one six-pound cannon and one bell that is broken, whose prove his property and paying charges may have the aforesaid things again.

May 4, 1939
Flames Ravage Woodland

Almost three acres of woodland lying between Howland Street and the Old Atkins-Mayo Road, just north of Bradford Street, were burned over early Sunday afternoon by flames that rolled dense clouds of smoke into the skies. A silent alarm brought out a single piece of apparatus but when the fire was about under control a regular alarm was turned in by an unidentified person. Fire Chief T. Julian Lewis believed the fire was caused by a carelessly thrown cigarette.

- September 1940 -

Now we've come to the railroad track. There goes Uncle Ak's Road, right across the track, and Althea and Mopsy are waiting for you to catch up.