

Chairman of the Board of Selectmen, John I. King, this morning couldn't say very much if anything about possible activities in repairing the dike out at Race Run but Lieut. Al Volton, Coast Guard commanding officer of this area, got a man to go up in the tower at Race Point to train a pair of strong binoculars on the spot in question. No doubt about it, equipment was being moved around at the point of the break—a big derrick, huge sand-pushers and other machinery.

June 1946

1347
Race Point Coast Guard Station, sec